

As a business, are you maximising the impact you can have on students with special educational needs and disabilities (SEND) in schools?

On 31 March at 10am you are invited to an inspiring and motivational webinar about the importance of employers engaging with young people with SEND.

Supporting students with SEND in mainstream and special schools needs a creative and inspired approach, and can be immensely rewarding for volunteers and businesses.

Working with these students and their support networks can have a huge impact on their future and open new and unexplored doors.

In this live webinar, you will hear directly from Enterprise Advisers, young people and Careers Leaders about the effect employers can have on the ambitions and motivations of these young people.
